

Even though globalization affects the world's economies in a positive way, its negative side should not be forgotten. Discuss both these views and give your own opinion.

Today's society is moving fast toward a phenomenon which is called globalization. As we consider its useful results, we should also keep in mind that it has some harmful effects on our life. In my opinion, I prefer that globalization affects the world we live in.

By bringing people closer together, the general knowledge of the community will grow and as a result, it will change their opinion on every aspects of their life. If people start to see everything differently, it would assist them in thinking more on their behavior and actions and only then may they ~~may~~ start to change their destructive habits.

The next benefit we can gain from globalization is about science. Not everyone had the proper situation for learning in the past. Imagine someone who wishes to study but because of living in the suburb and lack of access to adequate facilities, could not be educated. Unlike before, anybody can access acceptable teachers and excellent references, thanks to the internet. For example, our scholars in Iran can skype every professor in the USA or every other county and discuss ~~about~~ their problems.

On the other hand, globalization is ruining a lot of cultures. We had various cultures, with different clothes and foods and traditions. Today we barely see these kinds of civilizations and members of society wear nearly equivalent clothes or eat the same foods. For example, although we have a wide variety of foods in Iran, you can see fast foods are-is going to be more popular.

In conclusion, ~~however although~~ globalization can speed up the destruction of some old cultures, it can be a useful aid to mankind. By raising general knowledge, globalization helps us change our wrong habits. Also, it can remove distances and provide access to adequate equipment, hence the increase in rate of education.
