

Some people believe that allowing children to make their own choices on everyday matters (such as food, clothes, and entertainment) is likely to result in a society of individuals who only think about their own wishes. Other people believe that it is important for children to make decision about matter that affect them. Discuss both these views and give your own opinion

As parents love their children, they are consistently concerned with the best way to raise them, hence the importance of this matter. Some parents believe that kids should be taught to be independent and some believe otherwise. In my opinion, we should let our offspring be on their own after they pass a certain age.

The First benefit of growing-rearing independent children could be breeding a particularly strong generation. When parents let the young generation make their own choices, in fact they are training for their future when they are faced with major decisions. As a result, as they get older and take control of society, we can be confident about their judgment.

Secondly, when we let our kids make their own determination, actually we are allowing them to gain experience. One of the biggest flaws of our generation is entering the communication-community with few-little or no experience. Thus, the young generation is useless until they enjoy/gain/get/are provided with useful experiences. This issue needs spending time and money while we can fulfil this purpose with less money and energy by letting the young gain the needed experiences in their childhood.

On the other hand, there are so many dangers in the way of kids, so-and we should take care of them. By making one extremely wrong decision, our child's life will be ruined forever. For example, if your child starts taking/experimenting with drugs such as marijuana or cocaine, he/she would struggle with it for the rest of his/hers life.

In conclusion, raising your child to be independent is a better approach. Not only does your child gain precious experiences, but also this could result in a successful generation. Although this has some benefits, we should superintend-monitor on their decisions to watch them out from horrible dangers.
