

Governments should spend money on railways rather than roads

With increasing of the population ~~the~~ whole ~~the~~ world needs ~~to a~~ sufficient transportation system ~~is more touchable~~. Meanwhile, some critics believe the governments should spend more money for setting up the railways compared to roads. In this essay I will try to explain why I am agreeing with this point of view and how this idea can improve the quality of life for all the strata of society.

As I mentioned ed above the number of population is increasing daily and most of them are commuting. If this amount of population uses ~~of the~~ railway transportation system, obviously the consumption of fossil fuels will be have reduced. The ~~initiate initial~~ positive effect of this is helping to slow down the trend of climate changing and preventing ~~of~~ global warming.

On the other hand, ~~the~~ personal cars are more comfortable, however, ~~the~~ railway transportation are is more safe. Since, the most part of this system are is automatic, ally the rate of human errors are is very few. Statistics have showned deadly accidents were happened on the roads because of common mistakes s like using alcoholic drinks s before or during driving also getting distracted ing due to the use of mobile phones s.

In conclusion, the statesmen can meet the needs of launching the railways including funding/money. Then, they diplomatically with the politics can encourageing the citizens for to use using public transportation, spatially especially the railways ~~ones~~ that have has an enormous effect on the of quality of life in short and long time /term.