Nowadays the way many people interact with each other has changed because of technology.
In what ways has technology affected the types of relationships people make? Has this become a positive or negative development?

with the gradual advent of technology, tremendous horizons of insights have been enlightened. Health, transportation, business and roughly every existent branch of life have faced the changes brought by this phenomenon. Despite all the above-mentioned issues, ~~here~~ this essay is going to discuss the impacts of technology on communications and its pros and cons.

Firstly, it is better to imagine life regardless of currently invented communication devices and networks. What is the obvious corollary ~~is~~ would be the previous exhausting interaction ways/styles. Days in which people could become informed of each other only through letters or at face times. The Latest achievements of technology in the field of telecommunication have resulted in the occurrence of worldwide networks. For instance, Facebook, Instagram and such cyber spaces are a number of prominent networks and have great benefits to both owners and users. Although the demerits of these advanced communication tools are undeniable, the benefits ~~overweight~~ outweigh the disadvantages.

For example, before the arrival of first apps, my uncle could not get in touch with his family from China, his work place. Not only did he have to travel to see his family several times a year but also he spent a great deal of money on his journeys. Now he can see and talk to them from a large distance only via Skype or such programs and feel less homesick.

Besides, handling huge expensive and time- ~~and cost~~ consuming processes have become easier. One of my friends applying for a PhD position in Canada, conducted all the registration procedure through the Internet, Email and Skype. If these technological advancements had not been achieved, he would have lost his educational progress opportunity.

To sum up, even though some claim the addiction to the results of communicational technology is threatening, I opine that we can remove the troubles by enough awareness. In my idea, the more developed technologicaly achievements, the more welfare and unstressed life.
