

Some people spend a lot of money attending cultural or sports events. Is it good or a bad thing ? give your opinion and examples from your own experience .

Since 50 years ago sport and cultural events have had their fans and ~~could have been able to~~ attract a lot of people around the world to come and attend ~~to~~ such events, not only are they exciting but also so memorable. Parallel to development of mass- media and of course the growth of the population around the world , the interest of people ~~to-in~~ sport and cultural events ~~is~~ has increased and you can see a lot of people ~~are~~ ready to pay ~~much-ample~~ money to watch matches of their favorite sport team or beloved singer concerts , without paying attention to the price of tickets. while ~~in-on the~~ other side there are the group of people who like such events but hardly afford the high price of the tickets.

In my country, the prices of tickets of concerts and theaters are ~~so-far~~ higher than the average ~~of~~ income ~~of people~~ and also the period of time that they are on the stage ~~are-is so-too~~ short ~~too~~, so they will be sold out ~~so-much~~ sooner than you expect . For instance, when I wanted to buy the ticket of the Oliver Twist play I had to wait for a week, because whenever I tried to buy ~~it~~, the cheaper seats were sold and I preferred to wait for the next time.

Generally I am keen on sport and cultural events and enjoy ~~to-attend~~ ing therethem, but I do not agree to pay a lot of money for them , because I can allocate this deal of money to some other entertainments like going on vacation , enrolling ing in a gym and buying ing and reading ing books.

In my opinion, if people sanction/boycott these events for a short time , because of the high price of tickets, officials will have to reduce the prices and therefore ~~more-a larger~~ portion of ~~the~~ society could buy the tickets and moreover sport clubs and cultural bands can hold more events during the year.
