

Nowadays the most important task is the environmental protection of our planet for future generations. To what extent do you agree or disagree with this statement .

These days , environmental degradation is a controversial issue which has a myriad influence on next generation's life , and humans should take on the responsibility of their environmentally friendly manner . I , for one , assert that this mentioned suggestion plays a leading role in next generation's life .

There is no doubt that the occurrence of environmental degradation is the most crucial ~~crises—crisis,~~ these days . Using non-biodegradable materials and discharging chemical waste into rivers and the oceans have deteriorated in the past few decades , and ~~sadly they have~~~~it has~~ frequently occurred . This means that the more this circumstance persists , the more people's conditions are endangered; therefore, it seems that destroying natural habitats , ~~and—~~contaminating our supplies , and by passing the time , humankind will not subsequently have any food for consuming , and fresh air for breathing .

Although it would appear that our planet's condition is on the brink of destruction, there are still promising approaches to inhibit ~~the~~ environment from total destruction. Individuals had better be wary of next generation's life by utilizing renewable energy such as windmills or ~~mind—wind~~ turbines . People should join the green movement organizations for changes in ~~the~~ official policy on the environment because our children will be interested in living ~~on~~ Planet Earth .

In conclusion, it seems advisable that environmental protection should be the main priority for people because maintaining ecological crises leads to considerable~~y~~ damages for ~~next~~~~generations~~ s to come , and it is irreplaceable .
