

Every country has poor people and every country has different ways of dealing with the poor. What are some of the reasons for poverty? What can we do to help the poor?

It is true that even in developed countries a degree of poverty exists. ~~moreover~~, in many developing countries destitution is one of the major problems and the number of penurious people increases dramatically. ~~there are different factors that cause this issue and there are some of the solutions to resolve it.~~

The ~~headmost~~ foremost factor is ineffective global economic systems ~~which this system~~ reinforces inequality between rich and poor people since it allows resources to get distributed unequally amongst people. moreover, the global economic system can ~~attraction~~ attract the large investment corporations, which often pay their workers a sub-standard wage.

Another reason for world poverty is illiteracy hence the lack of education or good skill would limit people's ability to access decent jobs to ~~develop/grow themselves~~ and participate fully in society. In addition, it would result in a few options for them to choose a job with a low salary for them which also leads to not having enough money so they ~~can not~~ cannot afford the cost of living.

The former problem can be effectively solved by increasing job opportunities with reasonable salaries and develop entrepreneurship schemes. Furthermore, a system of subsection ~~s~~ should be provided to safeguard a minimal level of healthcare services. The latter problem would be resolved by experts, they can do some volunteering works like having classes for those people who are ~~analphabetic~~ illiterate. In this regard, not only have they helped their society to combat against poverty, but also have reduced the rate of literacy in their country.

On the whole, ~~however~~ although poverty will probably always exist, governments can take action to reduce indigence by ensuring that there is a fair distribution of ~~death~~ wealth among people under the international community and by making sure that all people have access to education.
