But unfortunately it does not fully hold water, considering the other view toward the issue can help us understand more about the negative impacts of tourism such as providing unsustainable economy and cultural conflict also how they can be dealt with to reduce the negative influences into a considerable amount.

Firstly, when holidaymakers ~~flow~~ flock into an area, it ~~strikes~~ helps the country's ~~that the~~ economy ~~will to~~ grow due to ~~the~~ money spending on items including ~~the~~ transportation, accommodation and local crafts, ~~since~~ Since the challenge seems to be far more complex. For example, in order ~~for to vanish~~ the environmental destructions to vanish, such as litter left by the tourists, a large amount of money is needed to be spent, while ~~While~~ I believe ~~that in~~ introducing some ~~stricter~~ stricter rules to be applied in relation with ~~the~~ tourism, nations are set to encounter ~~less~~ fewer environmental problems. Therefore, the tourism industry economy could be more beneficial to the country as well.

Secondly, the other catastrophic effect of tourism could be named as cultural conflict. ~~However,~~ people might have the chance to enhance the various knowledge related to other cultures of different countries, alternatively, it comes about the people of the hosting countries that disrespecting ~~of~~ their culture by the tourists, might put them into great troubles. This issue is relatively growing as the consequence of new prospects of cheaper traveling revealed to the people and lack of tourist's training resources which are on hand.
