

Some people think that all university students should study whatever they like. Others believe that they should only be allowed to study subjects that will be useful in the future, such as those related to science and technology. Discuss both views and give your opinion.

With growing and developing in all aspects of science, we need fresh, youth, knowledgeable and skillful workforces to boost society. All we will require are a proper and multiple education system. Some people agree on choosing subject course must be arbitrary means whatever university students like. Other groups of people claim that the majors which students study must be related to their future jobs. From my point of view, both views are right to some extent and I believe someone who can achieve pure success in their future when he/she does whatever they like. In the following both views have been discussed.

On the one hand, some who argue that the satisfaction of life is in doing whatever students like emphasize that they do their best when have interest in the major which they chose. Although societies, industries and modern technologies may not need that type of students and there is no job opportunity for them, they feel useful for themselves. In general, this satisfaction feeling spreads out positive energy to society which is reinforced all other parts of society.

On the other hand, the other group of people believes that all of the majors and courses which are held in the universities must be directly correspond with all of the job opportunities. They also say that society will have progressed when supply and demand in education ground is identical. Moreover, when we consider the future, competition for jobs will be very high and industries will hire only the finest talents. Since the modern society will be based on the knowledge about new technology and other modern knowledge, it is therefore, highly important that university students should focus more on studying these subjects for their better future rather than doing some just favorable tasks.

To conclude, many people are against studying only core subjects in contrast to others believe that studying is a process which students must have desire to. I must say that education and finding a proper career which is suit our personality require our interest and without it we will not make it there.
