Children training courses should be mandatory for all parents. Do you agree or disagree with this statement?

Give your own opinion and include relevant examples.

That parents should be taught is undeniable, but it is not enough???. Due to the variety of problems that raise during the raising of a child that may have never been encountered before.

I personally presume that training courses disregard the benefit of trial and errors. In other words, parents make mistakes and learn how to correct them accordingly, thereby acquiring new skills. For example, practicing to change diapers and finding the flaws in real situation is more useful for parents than attending in some classes and reading theoretical books. Other than that, we cannot draw a comparison between two kids, even siblings, they are too different. Moreover, it teaches parents to employ methods that are developed to be applied to all children, whereas many a child needs a special care, such as autistic children.

There is a plethora of prominent advantages that cannot be ignored. First and perhaps the most beneficial is that these courses teach parents how to utilize proven scientific methods when they are faced with a problem, the reduction of negatively behavioral effects. A case in point is , if a child is not obeying the rule of house, and he needs to be punished, children training teaches parents how to respond properly, so the child is not psychologically affected. Besides, training is a beneficial tool in increasing parents' awareness of hazardous and also irreversible accidents, such as falling and burning from happening to their offspring.

In a nutshell, highly educated parents are more reliable than those without knowledge and experience. Were I to choose between parents who spend compulsory training courses and inexperienced ones, undoubtedly, I would select the former. In spite of its disadvantages, the benefits are legion.