When a country develops its technology, the traditional skills and ways of life die out. It is pointless to try and keep them alive.

To what extent do you agree or disagree with this opinion?

These days' incredible progress of modern lives ~~make~~ has made a big change in societies and peoples' life style. some people believe common culture and lifestyle from the past decade are gone now. ~~In~~ from my point of view, forgetting and putting aside history ~~is~~ are impossible.

With the impressive devolvement in the IT industry we witness a great fluctuation in daily life. Technology has made it more comfortable to do~~ne~~ your daily tasks and activities, so without any time lost you are able to handle ~~to take care of~~ your banking, shopping and so many other ~~things~~ transactions and in addition to all of these you can pay a visit to your parents by video call through a chatting app. As time ~~passing~~ passes by you may have a less chance to pay a visit to your parents but there is no doubt that you will do your duties on special occasions.

With the huge accessibility of the internet by smart phones the opportunities to teach ancient facts about your nation to everyone especially the young generation are easier. There are both negative and positive sides for everything so considering the great chance that we have ~~in~~ these days we can afford to register culture and traditions in minds of people all around the world. ~~By~~ participating in events and campaigns shows the correct side of confronting ~~with~~ incidents.as time ~~passing~~ passes by there is no way to prevent the modern day~~'s~~ life so we should be ready ~~to~~ for flexible routines with this fact and also ~~docketing~~ documenting the required facts for next generations.

Considering the mentioned reasons above, I strongly disapprove of ~~with~~ this idea and hope to see the positive effects of technology on history.
