

Some people believe that allowing children to make their own choices on everyday matters such as food and clothes is likely to result in a society of individuals who only think about their own wishes. Other people believe that it is important for children to make decisions about matters that affect them.

There has been much debate revolving around the issue as to whether children should be permitted to make their own choices on daily matters or not. Due to the results, some people suppose children become selfish by choosing matters having effects on them. From my perspective, I assume in contrast and strongly believe the children should have freedom about various parts /aspects of their lives. I defend my statement by providing some reasons and instances.

Firstly, it must be considered that children will play a role as an adult in future. Hence, they become mature, they must have learnt how a decision is going to be taken. As an example, an individual who desire to be a savvy manager and tackle a large number of difficulties, they have to have deal with the challenging occasions. Furthermore, being an independent person requires to decide about matters individually. For instance, the teenagers living apart, are able to address miserable issues better than other children living with their parents. Moreover, the fact should be accepted that each person is responsible for her/ his own life. In addition to the responsibility, people announce their future are influenced by previous decisions. The last but not the least, if people agree with that lives has to be free, they will admit their children take decisions for their tasks lonely.

On the other hand, it is apparent that some children definitely are not conscious about the reality of life; however, their parents can make chances for them by permitting them to fail a lot. As a result, it provides some practical experiences.

In conclusion, it is better for children to have permission to make their own choices due to the reasons which I have supplied in advance.
