

Some parents buy their children a large number of toys to play with. What are the advantages and disadvantages for the child of having a large number of toys?

The view that purchasing too many playthings than few ones for youngsters is constantly an important concern for parents. Parents who can afford to buy large collection of toys; attempt to prepare all kinds of toys to fulfill their children desires and themselves. The following paragraphs are going to clear pros and cons of this act.

It is obvious that for nurturing and raising the children, toys are simplest and popular means, while these may have some drawbacks for them. In compare with the past, nowadays, children have much more facilities and playthings for rearing and educating. The efficiency of them is proved. For instance, Lego makes toddlers and kids more creative and also lets them to learn some alphabets and some geometrical shapes with various colours.

Although having a wide range of playthings prepares a lot of opportunities for educating youngsters, it has its negative aspects too. A play room with spaces full of toys may have created a distractive environment for kids, so that they may have divulged their creativity and intelligence in an evolutionary trend. This is not only affecting kids' innovativeness in a wrong way, but also may make them less appreciate their possessions.

In conclusion, I must say what is incontrovertible is to have proper nurtured children for next generations and this is not acquired by countless facilities. According to scientist, for children, in lack of toys conditions, their imaginations and creativitys are formed and also through this situation they can learn appreciation for their properties.