

Some people believe that women should play an equal role as men in a country's police force or military force, such as the army, while others think women are not suitable for these kinds of jobs.

Discuss both views and give your opinion.

There are some kinds of occupations ~~that for which~~ gender separation is considered ~~for them~~ such as joining a country's police force or military force. The dispute over this discrimination always is argued between some groups of people and has not been settled so far. In my opinion, women should have the equal opportunity as men to join a military force or police force.

First of all, the same rights between women and men can have positive effects on the life and emotions of a female in society. In other words, restriction in career choice not only will limit their job opportunities but also would lead to a negative impact mentality on them even in other professions ~~that where~~ they work. Consequently, they may not ~~act put~~ as much as effort into their work.

~~In second however~~, some other people believe that women do not have physiologically and physically appropriate ability for these kinds of jobs. However, women who work in men's environments suffer from gender-based attitudes more than those who work in women's settings. It should be noted, that women have another important and crucial responsibility as a mother at home. In addition, in order to do this kind of jobs, they have to be away from their children and family maybe for a long time. Therefore, they have to create a possible balance between their duties and parenthood.

I personally think the inconsistent expectations in family, jobs and gender discrimination roles are the most serious troubles that women are challenge facing them.

To summarize, the equal role's advantages for women as a rule clearly outweigh its disadvantages. To make a long story short, women must be given the right to choose themselves like men to play their role in a country's police force or military force.
