

Being a celebrity _ such as a famous film star or sports personality _ Bring problems as well as benefits. Do you think that being a celebrity brings more benefits or more problems?

Through the fact of the Maslow's hierarchy of needs, being well-known is the latest need for every individual. This shows that it is a deeply instinctive feeling of humans' character. People always attempt to do their best for obtaining others' attention and admiring positively. These have happened since humans' birth. Fame and becoming eminent like other issues is a sword having two sharp edges that nobody can escape. Pros and cons of the situation will be discussed in the following.

On the one hand, everybody has desire to be a special person in order to having a high rang of salary, attracting public attention and receiving rewards. People constantly follow their favorite sports man, stars as how they behave and act in their lifestyle. Sometimes, ordinary people, for instance, teenagers and young adults make their appearance like their favorite actors or actress. It is obvious that celebrities play an important role in society and because of their fame people trust them easily in every aspects of life. In Iran, Ali Daei, who is a renowned footballer, could collect huge amount of money from Iranian people for aiding to people in the Kerman Shah earthquake in 2016. I believe their reputation has a key role in creating a unanimous society.

On the other hand, influential person cannot live a common life, going out freely, because of the presence of paparazzi who wants to record a report for their magazines and people who desire to take autograph and photograph from them. This situation is bothersome for them. I am not a famous person, however, I have seen a celebrity's life closely. Although they have enormous amount of money, they are not able to use it for having peaceful life.

To sum up all the statements above, I have to say that there are always two sides of the coin. Celebrities like an actress, actor, singer and sports personality intent to be famous, otherwise, they would not choose these occupations, but I believe that everyone deserve a proper social life without disturbing from others through media, press and among society, it is inalienable right for them and the public should respect their privacy.
