

Some people believe that visitors to other countries should follow local customs and behavior. Others disagree and think that the host country should welcome cultural differences. Discuss both these views and give your own opinion.

Nowadays, throughout the technological world, quality and quantity with speed of the transportation have developed and nobody can deny convenience of the recent journeys. Obviously, the numbers of travelers have increased too. Globalization is as-a result of the world convenient connections. Traveling causes various cultures to disseminate around the world. It is a fact that through such a situation human beings face different skin's complexions, laws, manners, etiquettes, cultures and religions-of individuals. Although traveling has a lot of merits for people, it causes them extreme issues.

On the one hand, some people argue that individuals who have a lot of travel to the-different countries might gain much experience about how a variety of countries and tribes live a life and with what different facilities, customs, religions and customs. They claim that travelers had better to-learn from the bright side of the host people's customs. It might be better that they follow the culture of the destination country. However, there is no need to advertise others' cultures to their own country. No matter what are the different natures of the different countries, the most valuable manner is just to appreciate them. This is an exact way to retain-maintain peace between countries and also it has been seen as some opportunities to inform other dwellers from various countries about their own cultures and traditions.

On the other hand, it is clear that no one likes to follow others' customs., however, today, people from long-distance lands, like far-East or Middle East have followed Western cultures and this situation is inappropriate. Indeed, the beautiffulness-beauty of the human life is directly related to this diversity and the important matter is that governments and all the walks of life should try to maintain that. Moreover, not only is the maintenance of the diversity of the cultures, customs, and religions is-significantly important, but also appreciation for them is considerable. The main matter is the essence of mutual understanding between various nations.

To sum up all the statements above, I have to say that it is substantial for every individual from disparate nations to appreciate other opinions, behaviors, rituals and customs. It is just applicably sharing mutual understanding and acting as some of them to reach a friendly and peaceful life among all countries from all countries around the world.
