

The media is increasing interest in famous people who have ordinary backgrounds. Why do you think people are interested in the lives of famous people? Do you think this is a good thing?

An overwhelming majority of people across the world tend to know about celebrities' personal life. In other words, this has become one of the main amusements in wide range of communities where tabloids and gossip rags have the highest rates of sold out printed media. The reasons behind this curiosity, besides the merits and demerits of such a tendency will be elaborated in the following lines.

In almost most parts of the world people are keen on personal lives of iconic people because by and large famous stars ~~in almost most parts of the globe~~ are leading a luxurious lifestyle that most people are dreaming about. ~~Drown/filled with-in~~ money and great happiness, superstars apparently are enjoying their life much more than ordinary people, and perhaps people who follow their life are interested to see what they could not reach, but their icons have attained. Undoubtedly, celebrities' pretty face and attractive body is another factor at play. That most of the super stars benefit from their attractive appearance is an indisputable fact.

Though many people enjoy to be at the center of attraction by others, most celebrities claim that they do not like to be under surveillance by both hidden and unhidden cameras when in public. The Majority of famous stars prefer to appear in public places as ordinary members of society to enjoy of being with other people. Many a star dreams of an evening jog with his family in a park near his home. Hardly a month goes by without hearing of a well-known couple separating because of a private picture or document released by a tabloid.

To cut a long story short, not only can this tendency be to the benefit of celebrities, but it also can be to the benefit of the populace if people's awareness improves. People have to realize that peeking over the private life of their superstars can be at the cost of their stars' lives. It is high time people realized that they are not allowed to know every twist and turn of superstars.