Some parents buy their children a large number of toys to play with.

What are the advantages and disadvantages for the child of having a large number of toys?

In this day and age, the technological enhancement has ledleads to manufacturers producing more kinds of toys and games dramatically all over the world. However, negative impacts of the mentioned facilities are quite crucial in children's life which should be considered by parents.

In my opinion, providing various types of playthings by parents can be pretty helpful for their charges. In other words, some games which aid children in stimulating their mind and brain play an important role in this regard. For instance, those who attempt to learn numbers or alphabets through these games at age of reason can be more successful than their counterparts particularly in their future elementary school. Moreover, Not only will such games teach children multitude different skills, but also it-they can be absolutely effective on their concentration power.

However, I strongly believe that negative effects of a large number of toys and games cannot be denied at all especially in rich families. My firm conviction is that parents might spoil their offspring by the mentioned issue. The manner of raising the children is a main factor particularly in their future life meaning on the social side, only if everyone can manage their life correctly according to their possessions, will they be satisfied in order to enjoy life. Besides, anybody generally can be successful in team working provided they had learnt this skill as a child.

Last but not least, in terms of health, the material of many toys can be regrettably quite detrimental for infants. Plastics entail chemical components by which body health of children may be affected since they are more sensitive and vulnerable than adults. It-they might hurt their body and causes some unintended negative impacts which in turn brings about dangerous diseases. Therefore, this crucial issue must be considered by parents. On the other hand, these novel playthings prevent children from doing physical activities, hence their physical problems which will be observed over time.

In conclusion, further to the above explanation, even though availability of more kinds of toys and games is an absolutely bland phenomenon for the children, it will have much more disadvantages in their life.