

Successful sport professionals can earn a great deal more money than people in other important professions. Some people think this is fully justified while others think it is unfair.

Discuss both these views and give your own opinion.

Income disparity among various professions is a problem which most of the professionals are dealing with. For instance, the high amounts of sport professionals' salary is a moot point by which the motivation and success of other professionals are negatively affected.

On one hand, some people argue that ~~high amount of super salary salaries are~~ completely justified for sport professionals since their practical activities are limited by their age. In other words, those who get about forty years old and ~~elder older~~ cannot be as active as ~~much as~~ their younger counterparts, even though other opportunities such as acting as a coach and a referee are provided for them. Moreover, in healthy terms, it is obvious that not only are their success and income inextricably bound up in their physical health, but also they may lose their job for a while if they are seriously hurt. Therefore, the mentioned reasons are some factors in this regard.

However, in my opinion, becoming a master at every specific skill will be obtained merely through hard work/diligence in all different aspects of that profession, so the related income should be exactly in accordance with those efforts. For example, from an educational standpoint, there is no necessity of having a specific degree for sport professionals whilst it is mandatory for scientists, politicians, surgeons and engineers. It is an axiom that educating is ~~a~~ quite a difficult procedure which sport professionals are generally free from. Last but not least, in terms of responsibility, the mentioned professionals are absolutely incomparable with sport ones. The manner and activities which must be applied in scientific projects, governmental programs, industrial projects, cure and surgeries are extremely sensitive and crucial which in turn affect the people's life. I strongly believe only when such professionals have deep concentration, be quite careful and consider all aspects of related issue will the satisfactory outcome be gained.

Consequently, further to the above explanation, my firm conviction is the amount of sport professionals' income and that of their responsibility are mutually exclusive. Thereby, I think other professionals whom I mentioned in previous paragraphs are entitled to get more money compared to their sport peers.