

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement ?

It is better to have broad knowledge of the academic subjects than to specialize in one specific subject . Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer .

Education plays an important role in humans' life and students are the future of society and they need to learn many skills in order to contribute to society . It is obvious , this statement has been debated for many years and people have various opinions because it depends on their personality . They can both have negative and positive points which I explain ~~for you~~ here .

First of all , specialize in one specific subject ~~it~~ can be better because students have more focus on one subject , so they can get better results and they can be experts in the field they studied that is one of the positive points but some persons may get tired of this monotony and this is one of the negative points . If students concentrate on a single subject , they are able to study the details because they have more time . For instance in my last year of the university I decided to specialize in one law , so I studied women's rights and now I have a lot of articles and experience in this file also students can easily remember the topic because the subject and details are the same .

In addition , If students study one subjects , they can have a more powerful resume and provides better performance . Nowadays companies wants skilled people in different files , so they see your resume . consequently , it is better to specialize in one files than having no expertise in any files . For example when I was in high school , we had a teacher who taught us math , geography and Quran and when you asked him some questions out of the books , he could not answer because he did not specialize in any of those lessons .

Last but not least , some people believes that it is more beneficial for students to have broad knowledge of various subjects because people totally must possess useful skills and experience to manage difficult situations in life . They must learn to improve their potential abilities even at a young age , so it is better to have broad knowledge of diverse subjects .

As a result , Were I to choose between have a broad ~~of~~ knowledge and specialize in one specific subject , I would go for specialize in one subject because from my viewpoint , if you have a powerful resume in specific file , you can become an expert in a field that no one can be you .
