

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement? In order to become financially responsible adults, children should learn to manage their own money at young age . Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer .

It is obvious, children are the future of our society and they should learn many skills during ~~they~~their childhood because one day they become adults. The Managing money skill is ~~the~~ one of the most essential and important skills which children should learn at young age.

First of all, this money management at the young age prepares children for math at the school because they always count their own money. The researchers report about relationship between money management and math score by questionnaires given to ~~of~~ students in some schools. After researchers check ~~of~~ the ~~responders'~~respondents' history math scores they figure out the students who were allowed to manage their own money, have a score higher on their math exams.

For example my aunt taught her daughter how to count and manage her own money, so when she became ~~younger~~older she was better in math than me and now she is a very successful accountant.

Secondly, some parents think that if they give children great deal of money they can make them happier and they will be satisfied but in fact it never inhibits their desire and demands, so parents should teach them the concept of money . The children cannot appreciate money and they waste it because they do not know how ~~they~~their parents earn money and how difficult to obtain. when the children understand which money is not easy to earn, they will know their parents' hardwork and they are cautious not to behave such that offends them. In addition, when children understand the value of money, they will always try their best to gain their achievement to earn more money from their parents. For instance, parents say you will get 100$ , if you get the highest grade in the class, certainly they will put their effort ~~on~~into their tasks to accomplish the goal perfectly.

Last but not least , this money management is a kind of responsibility which means it ~~learns~~teaches children to be responsible persons for money and other aspects. They should pay attention to spending their money during the month because if their money runs out, they will have no more money until the next month.

Ultimately, It is beneficial for children to learn how they should manage their own money at the young age because in this situation they can learn about money value , responsibility and the suffering of making money.
