

Nowadays people are choosing to socialize online rather than face to face, is this a positive or negative development?

These days people prefer to socialize online instead of face to face that it could be a positive or negative trend. In my opinion socializing online can give you more opportunity but on the other hand if you use it as the only way and become an addict it can take opportunities too.

First of all online socializing can help you to communicate, talk and be in touch with people from all around the world that it gives you the opportunity to know about different cultures, ideas, beliefs and others mindset. For instance if you are interest about a subject or you want to know about a particular religion , when you are looking for more information about an special ceremony or an event in another country or city, when it is hard for you to go there and talk to people in person you can just seat at your home and communicate with people online , talk to them and start a friendship, thus online socializing gives you the opportunity to overcome the limitations and easily make friends from everywhere in this world. It also make it easier to be in touch with your family or old friends who they are far from you.

Second of all with all the advantages of the online socializing nowadays people are in touch with their family, friends or colleagues just online and they don't spend time together to much as a family or friends so they are missing the moments and the feeling of hugging or laughing and talking together, they are missing the joy of spending an evening with a close friend by having a coffee together and talk. These could affect on new generation in future that they can not see real communication.

As a result online socializing can be a positive opportunity if you use it for your real needs when you don't have other choice but it could be harmful if you become an addict and use it as your only choice so it is all about how we use it.
