

It is inevitable that as technology develops ~~so,~~ traditional culture must be lost. Technology and traditional ~~a~~ are incompatible- you cannot have them both together.

To what ~~extend~~ extent do you agree or disagree with this statement182

Having eased daily work, technology is deeply ~~have~~ rooted in our life and has changed people's behaviors as well as their favorites and hobbies. Some of the traditional methods and devices, which were the symbols of our culture, have ~~been~~ faded and been replaced by modern manners and gadgets but the rest are alive and people respects ~~s~~ them. To my mind, though, many aspects of our traditional life have been effected by technological progress, I believe traditions and cultures are not at stake as technology expands, rather both can be established ed and cherish together.

Nowadays, the pace of change in our lives is becoming faster and faster. Our life style ~~are~~ is driven by modern technology and mass media. Old tools are replaced by modern devices that have been advertised in the media and encourage individuals to use ~~that~~ them, for instance smart phones and LED monitors which are renewed ed per annum have affected the people life. In the same way our life style is constantly living in a state of change and people experience new methods and leave, for example some of the traditional foods have been forgotten and replaced by fast food.

That is to say, all of our old manners ~~is~~ are not our cultures and we have to distinguish between them, the old manners will ~~be~~ en replaced by new methods such as clothes that people ~~wear~~ wore 50 years ago. But if we do not follow traditions in our daily life, they will not ~~be~~ forget ~~forgotten~~ and have their position and respect in people's mind. For example, though youth have ~~been inclined~~ tended to Pop music since 50 years ago, the folk music still has ~~had~~ high respect in Iranian life ~~yet~~. That is why traditional cultures are mixed with history as a heritage and people ~~are~~ bring ~~brought~~ up with those valuable items.

To sum up, traditional cultures are an inevitable part of life and ~~are~~ de not lost in modern life.
