

Workers are more satisfied when they have many different types of tasks to do during the workday than when they do similar tasks all day long. Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer.

It is obvious that people's tasks are extremely effective in their life and in my opinion these kinds of questions can have a variable answers because it depends on people's personality and their situations during their life. In my experience if workers do several types of obligations during their workday, they will be more satisfied and I think this is for some main reasons which I will explain with a couple of examples.

For the first and most, no one can every deny by doing disparate duties workers can learn ~~variant~~ various/diverse/numerous articles and even they can ~~have a~~ gain various experiences in diverse subjects, if they do various kinds of tasks during the day which would be beneficial for their current life and also it is conducive to enhancing their abilities in contrast to the ~~emergency-emergencies~~ circumstance because they can manage different aspects easily ~~in at the~~ at the same time.

Another point is that, it cannot be boring for workers if they do different tasks in their workday and it is a given fact they get exhausted later because in that case they cannot realize passing of the time. Besides, because of unpleasant economic situations some workers have to do diverse duties and this derives from ~~the~~ poverty. For instance, in my country many educated young people have to work in two places to spend their lives and meet their essential needs. For example, my uncle works in a private company until the evening and he is a driver at Snap at the night. Although this condition is tough for him, he can have an easier life and be satisfied.

To recap, to be satisfied depends on workers' situations and their personalities but in my belief ~~have~~ having a several missions/assignments during a day can be more effective because you can gain a multiple experiences and abilities to handle complex circumstances and get tired later because of doing a variety of task ~~objects~~ during the day.