However, As can be seen, from the beginning of 1987 till the end of 1989, a steady decline in the amount of exports took place. After that, the figure remained constant.

The second graph makes it clear that Canada exported 19 millions ~~s of~~ tonnes of wheat in 1985. Although this figure dropped to 19 million ~~s of~~ tonnes by the end of 1986, it rocketed to 25 million ~~s of~~ tonnes in the next two years, followed by a nosedive to 13 million ~~s of~~ tonnes in 1989. In the last year of the corresponding period, this figure went up to 18 million ~~s of~~ tonnes.

Based on the third graph, the European Community exported 17 million ~~s of~~ tonnes of wheat in the beginning of the period while this number decreased to 14 million ~~s of~~ tonnes in 1986 followed by a steady increase to just over 15 million ~~s of~~ tonnes.
