

Dear Mr. Johnathan

Following our previous talk about the Iranian market and the opportunities for new co-operations, it is necessary for all financiers to recognize the vital criteria within the projects. As I have mentioned in my last email, the act of recruiting people in each project is an important factor that should have been seen before the project feasibility studies. In this process, project stakeholders should first categorize their desires in each project by establishing a plan, upon Iranian laws and employees' conditions.

By Iranian laws, I want to emphasize ~~on~~ the difference between the amount of gross salary and net salary regarding ~~to the~~ Iranian rules of insurance and tax. Recently, the Iranian government wants to pass/introduce a law in the parliament/majlis congress to support low-age labors, less than 29 years old, by eliminating costs of tax and insurance. In this regard, it would be a great/suitable/proper superb condition that should be caught as soon as possible.

On the other hand, Iranian employees have passed very hard years and would desire to catching the best options in the recent days (post-sanction era)~~time-after sanctions?~~, after all economic sanctions, can enormously affect their lives. Within this procedure, it is its the companies' ability to propose the most attracting offers to absorb high quality and skilled workers.

As a ~~in~~ result, it would be a great pleasure to be a part of your human resource team and also your consultant in the new Iranian ~~new~~-market. Having had many years' experience working with Iranian companies, today I find myself an appropriate candidate/choice who is not only talented for this position, but also a suitable choice item-to convey the entire business in Iran. Please keep me informed for better assistance.

Yours Faithfully
