

Nowadays more and more people need news on the Internet. Nevertheless, newspapers will remain an important source of news and important for the majority of people.

Do you agree or disagree with this statement?

In this day and age, access to of the Internet has increased d enormously. Although a large number of people would like to check the news on it, there, a wide type of newspapers are still published yet, so some say the Internet cannot replace newspapers because of some significant reasons. The essay deals with to argue both sides of the topic.

From my point of view, the Internet affects a widely spectrum aspects of life aspect throughout the world. It means that it could change people's lifestyle. In the modern world, most of the people rely on it because of the speed of conveying the information and data. In this circumstance, one of the most important reasons that which people are inclined to attend the Internet is access of news easily. In my opinion, news plays a key role in the business world. Citing an example, market share is one of a good example which where it depends on a lot of factors for changing, so some people especially those (who are) active in this field need to be up-to-date/updated d for making suitable decisions.

Furthermore, the other benefit of using the Internet for achieving news will lead to less paper consumption. is decrease to overuse papers. In fact that with the approach, not only can we save / rescue our nature especially trees, but also it can lead to decreasing air pollution which what all of the countries struggle with this problem these days.

However, this way has obvious drawbacks besides of privileges. From my perspective, the Internet is where people can find a variety of information so that some of them are reliable while and the others are not. Mostly news on the Internet is published rapidly without verification by famous sources, while newspapers commonly have famous ones. It means that an overwhelming number trust of news are considered somewhat unreliable. consider/ include of the doubt in the former view whilst the latter one could create more trusty atmosphere. Moreover, it cannot be deniedy that using newspaper feels classic and traditional sense in terms of tangibility touchable. Not only does it have a positive sense, but also it can prevent leading some physical issues especially some eye problems and diseases.

In consequence, having news and being up-to-date should not be related to either the Internet or newspapers. From my point of view, both have some advantages and disadvantages and they can be published side by side wisely.
