

108. Some people believe that the best way of learning about life is by listening to the advice of family and friends, other people believe that the best way of learning about life is through personal experience. Compare the advantages of these two different ways of learning about life. Which do you think is preferable? Use specific examples to support your preference.

Some people prefer to learn by others' experiences and advices in their life, while others prefer to get experience by their own. From my view point-point, it depends on the people's characters. The First group is so cautious, and they want to take advantage of others' comments says. The Second group have different thought think that they try onby their own. There are advantages in both ways for each of the groups and I am going to explain some of them.

Some people are conservative and don't want to repeat others' mistakes. They listen and give others' consultation and advice before starting any work, So this these people can prevent making some probable mistakes which their friends or families have experienced. For example, they might listen to the others' comments before starting to study for a specific major in the university. If they consult expert people or senior students. They can imagine themselves in future and they will be more likely to change their way and decide to study a proper major.

Other people think that they should have their own experience because they think that they are different with others. This kind of people are is usually serious about on their decision. They think that there are some issues and points which others cannot find them, So they try to use any opportunity and take risks for gaining valuable knowledge even if/though it brings them a in hard situation or causes them to that they'll lose their money or time.

~~I prefer to take and use advantage of the others words and advice as much as possible because I figure out that life is giving lots of lessons any more. Therefore, it is wise that at least I try prevent to repeat others mistakes.~~

All in all, people are different and they have their own reasons for doing something. Some prefer to pay attention to others' advice before taking any decision/doing any work and others think that the best way for learning is their personal lessons that they can achieve on their own/by themselves.by their own. I prefer to take and use advantage of the others' words and advice as much as possible because I have figured out that life is giving lots of lessons constantly. Therefore, it is wise that at least I try to avoid repeating others' mistakes.