

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement? Boys and girls should attend separate schools. Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer.

Nowadays, ~~the a~~ question as to whether or not boys and girls should attend segregated schools has turned into a debatable issue among parents. As far as psychologists are concerned in attending separate schools, the quality of their learning could be enhanced, while there might be some dire consequences for both sexes too. According to the facts and figures released by Research Center of Tehran University both girls and boys who have studied in mixed-schools are more successful in their own marriage ~~inasmuch as to the point that~~ they are more capable in making social interaction with the opposite sexes.

A majority of parents are of the belief that children are more focused when they attend segregated schools. By nature their attentions could be converted to other ones and it would ~~keep make~~ them away from the main objective of attending the classes which is learning.

On the contrary, schools years are the best time to learn some essential skills. It is ~~an as~~ important to learn how to interact with ~~the~~ other sexes as it is to learn math or physics. The mixed schools could help the children to strike a balance in their own private lives. Also they could enjoy the same opportunities to learn and even compete with each other ~~on in~~ an equal base in order to improve.

At this point, considering this issue from different aspects and dimensions, I would get the impression that although mixed-schools might have some destructive effects regarding the distractions, the advantages outweigh the negative points.

What it all comes down to is that in order for children to have brighter futures, they need to achieve so many essential skills such as getting familiar with ~~the~~ other sex's ~~es'~~ attitudes and providing a balance in their own private lives as well.
