

94.07.24 workshop FRI session 26 speaking men & women's talents

Some say men and women have differences

Physical and genetic differences

They are different in that men are more logical and women more emotional

As as /less Than , twice as many/much

They have differences which are not only physical, but also genetic

Such differences equip them for different activities/jobs/careers

Traditionally women have been working in the home

Women tend to dominate the caring professions

Teaching, nursing and social work

This issue has reinforced the idea that women are particularly suited to such jobs

Women are hired in jobs traditionally only held by men

Individual differences may be more important than gender differences

Women may be physically stronger and men more sensitive

I think individual men and women can be trained to develop similar abilities

Differences in aptitude and talents are greater at the individual level than at the gender level

Good luck!
